

Show Your Glow

(script available)

Luna the glow worm is feeling shy about her shine. It's up to our wiggly friends to find a way to help her show her glow, and in the process learn that your best is beautiful.

Don't Yuck my Dung

Bruno the dung beetle needs help rolling his dungball, but Cosmo does not like the idea of touching poo. Bruno needs to teach the Wigglers about the wonders of dung and that just because you don't like something, it doesn't mean everybody feels the same way, and that's fine.

Hog bugs

A gang of greedy, gregarious locusts are passing through Wiggle Wood wanting to eat everything in sight. Our Wigglers, with the help of Bellona, show the bothersome bugs that you don't have to pig out and that sharing has its own rewards.

Noisy Neighbours

Cosmo is trying to construct a new swing for the Wigglers, but she can't concentrate as Chadwick and Cyd are having an impromptu dance party. She heads off to wiggle out her frustration and bumps into Oliver Owl, who's at his wit's end – his noisy neighbour, Robin Robin, loves to sing, and nocturnal Oliver just wants to sleep. Practical Cosmo tries to figure out ways to help the owl sleep, such as earplugs and soundproofing Oliver's tree hollow, but nothing works. Maybe there's a simpler solution?

With encouragement from the Wigglers, Oliver confronts Robin and explains his problem. Turns out Robin is totally understanding and happily promises to keep it down while Oliver is sleeping. This gives Cosmo an idea – why not just ask Chadwick and Cyd to be a bit quieter? And of course, they're more than happy to, although, since Oliver is now awake, why don't they all have a song and dance party before Cosmo gets back to her swing.

Strong as Silk

Gung-ho Chadwick has got himself into a pickle and Cyd and Cosmo are going to need some sort of rope to get him out. Sansi Silkworm offers up her thread, but Chadwick can't believe that something so thin will be strong enough. Our caterpillar friend needs to learn that looks can be deceiving and things (and people) can be stronger than they seem.

Walking on Water

The Wigglers are playing by the pond with Bellona when they meet a new friend – Brooke Pond-skater. Cosmo is fascinated by Brooke's ability to skate on water, he's a little sad that it's something she'd never be able to do herself. But with Bellona's encouragement Cosmo finds her own way to venture out onto the pond in a leaf boat and learns that you can achieve anything when you put your mind to it. (And Chadwick learns to water ski!)

Flora's Bee Sense

Cosmo is frustrated because Cyd and Chadwick can't understand her instructions for a treasure hunt she's organised. But when Flora Honeybee shows Cosmo how she uses dancing to give other bees directions, Cosmo realises that different people benefit from different types of instructions.

Bee Strong

Wiggle Wood is blooming and the Wiggler's friend, Flora Honeybee, is very excited about all the pollen laden flowers, but when she tries to carry way too much back to the hive, she ends up grounded. The Wigglers come up with some practical solutions to Flora's problem – Cosmo suggests a complex counterbalanced stack, Cyd comes up with a harness to increase the amount Flora can carry and Chadwick simply thinks more, faster trips will work. Perhaps the friends just need to learn not to bite off more than you can chew.

The Extraordinary Egg

When Cyd finds an egg, she does everything she can to find its home, but it doesn't seem to belong to any of the birds in Wiggle Wood. Looks like Cyd will need to become a parent to a chick! Cyd is excited but nervous – is she ready to look after a baby bird? When the time comes for the egg to hatch Cyd is in for a big surprise - a little sand lizard bursts out. Luckily Mummy Sand Lizard and all the baby lizard's siblings are close by ready to retrieve their lost little scuttler. Cyd is sad to say goodbye but a little relieved that she doesn't have to become a mummy herself!

Admiral's Butterversary Surprise

The Wigglers are excited: it's Red Admiral's butterversary – the anniversary of when he first emerged from his chrysalis, and they've got a surprise birthday party planned. Chadwick is a bit annoyed when he's designated the task of keeping Admiral busy whilst the others get organising, he'd much rather be making decorations and baking caterpillar cakes. But a day alone with Admiral turns out to be wonderfully eye opening and Chadwick discovers there's lots of exciting things you can learn from a butterfly that's been around the tree trunk a few times.

Maggotsitting

Chadwick loves playing with the roly-poly maggot babies, but when he offers the Wiggler's services as babysitters, Chadwick realises that he's taken on more responsibility than he can handle. Can he admit to Bellona that he needs help?

The Caterpillar who Cried Rain

The Wigglers are having a joyful dance party in the woods when Douglas Earthworm appears – he thought their tapping feet and whizzing wheels were rain and has come up to find some muddy goodness. He's happy to see his friends, but a bit disappointed that there's no rain. With Douglas off back into the soil, Chadwick thinks it would be a funny to trick Douglas into thinking that it's raining again and encourages them all to start dancing. The trick works and Douglas comes back – he agrees it was a funny trick – ho ho... But when Chadwick tries the trick again (even though Cyd and Cosmo think it's not the best idea) Douglas is a bit cross. Chadwick needs to make amends and learn that sometimes a joke can go too far.

Grumpy Hello

Spring is springing through Wiggle Wood and Hazel Fieldmouse is due to come out of hibernation. Cyd is super excited and has prepared a surprise party with all Hazel's favourite treats. Finally, Hazel emerges from her snuggly nest to be met with cheers and a special song, but the poor, groggy fieldmouse wasn't prepared and retreats back into her nest – what a disaster! Cyd is disappointed that her wonderful party didn't go to plan and a little cross with Hazel for not appreciating all her hard work. She needs to learn that sometimes things don't live up to expectations and that's fine. And after Hazel has had a chance to properly wake up and nibble some of the tasty treats, she's ready to party!

Wiggle Wood Monster

It's Halloween and the Wiggles are celebrating by camping out with their friend Stella Pipistrelle Bat. Chadwick thinks it would be a great idea to tell creepy stories around the campfire, even though the others are a bit nervous. But when Chadwick manages to spook himself, it's up to Stella to show Chadwick how you can use your ears to tell what's around when you can't see, and that there's nothing to be scared of in Wiggle Wood.

Star of the Show

It's the Wiggle Wood winter festival and the Wiggles are excited to perform in the annual festival show. Cyd is particularly excited to sing with Robin, who has a beautiful voice. Thing is, Robin knows how good her voice is and sings so loud no one else can be heard. It's up to the Wiggles to show Robin that singing in harmony with friends can be more fun than being the star of the show.

The Big Boast

The Wiggles are very impressed by all the things their friend Nancy Spider says she has done – clambered all the way to the top of the biggest tree, visited her famous sister who lives 100 miles away, and even built a web to the moon. But when Cosmo questions how Nancy could build something all that way, the spider's web of unfounded boasts unravels. Cosmo and the other Wiggles show Nancy that she doesn't have to make things up to impress them.

The Long Journey

The Wiggles are concerned to find Tunde, an exhausted swift, grounded in Wiggle Wood. After some food, water and rest, Tunde makes a quick recovery, but he's going to need some help getting back into the air – swifts find it hard taking off from the ground. Cyd is on the case – she's got an idea for a swift launcher! As she constructs the gadget, Tunde waxes lyrical about his epic journey all the way from Africa. Cyd is enchanted, she too would love to see all the fascinating things Tunde has seen, but she's so small, she'll never be able to travel that far. As the time comes for Tunde to take flight, Cyd is sad not to be flying with Tunde. It's up to Bellona to remind Cyd that one day she will have wings too. Tunde promises to come back next year – who knows, by then Cosmo might be a butterfly and they'll be able to fly together – he knows that if you dream big you can make anything happen.

What a Stag Wants

The Wiggles friend, Barbara Stag-beetle, seems a bit down in the dumps, so Cyd resolves to do something special to cheer her up – but what would Barbara like? She's big and strong so maybe she'd like to lift some heavy stuff? Or stomp up the big hill and shout loudly from the top! But even after these macho activities Barbara still seems sad. Maybe it's time for Cyd to actually ask Barbara what's was wrong? Cyd is astounded to discover that Barbara is upset about losing her favourite cuddly toy – Mr Binks, she just loves to cuddle up with him at night. What!? Big strong Barbara has a cuddly toy!? But then Cyd thinks, why wouldn't she? Cyd marshals the Wiggles and other Wiggle Wood creatures to mount a plushie search and rescue, and Mr Binks is found – much to Barbara's relief. Cyd learns that just because someone is big and tough it doesn't mean they don't have softer side.

The Odd Couple

Red Admiral Butterfly is busy preparing dinner for a mystery guest and the Wiggles are desperate to find out who – it's obviously someone very important. Chadwick, Cosmo and Cyd use their respective strengths to try and unravel the enigma, spying, deducing and guessing. All three are utterly surprised when Squadron Leader Hawkmoth arrives – she's a nocturnal moth, surely the pair have nothing in common. The Wiggles learn that even if someone seems very different from you it doesn't mean you can't be firm friends (although it seems like the Admiral and Squadron Leader mostly enjoy amiable arguing...)

Cold Nancy

It's a snowy winter day in Wiggle Wood and Nancy Spider is complaining – she doesn't like the cold – it makes her all slow and sleepy. It's up to each Wiggler to find something which will help Nancy see the wonder in winter, ending with Bellona showing Nancy the utter beauty of Nancy's frosty web. Nancy learns to appreciate winter, and with a special present of a warm woolly hat, she's finally ready to celebrate the season.
